Scottish Country Dancing

(class locations on back)

You don't have to be Scottish, wear a kilt, or even speak English to enjoy it. There are branches of the Royal Scottish Country Dance Society the world over, from Boston to Bangkok, with classes, parties and balls open to all.

Dance to the lively beat of jigs, reels and hornpipes, and to the more elegant strathspey, unique to Scottish music.

Scottish Country Dancing is done in sets; that is, it's done in formations of several couples, usually four. Individuals interact with partners, corners, and others in the set. Several figures make up each dance.

The figures are varied, and the steps lend an element of grace and style. It is not necessary to bring a partner; participants usually change partners after every dance.

Scottish Country Dancing has historical roots, having evolved from court dancing of the 16th century. It has since become a structured form of social dance enjoyed by all.

Join the fun, complete with whoops and hollers during jigs and reels, punctuated by stately strathspeys. Young and old, singles and couples - are all welcome.

Fun, friendship, and great music await!
